Hansel and Gretel

STORYTELLER

Once a upon a time there was a brother and sister.
Their name was Hansel and Gretel.
They lived with their parents in a house near by the wood.
They are poor and the food is running out.

The parents take them in to the wood and plan to leave them there. The two children fall asleep under a tree.
The next morning, they look for their house.

An old lady opens the door. She smiles and says:

The old woman seems good and kind, but she's really a witch. The witch locks Hansel in a cage and poor Gretel has to do all the housework.

One day Gretel has an idea. She calls the witch and asks:

But Gretel pushes the witch into the oven.

Hansel and Gretel run. They hug their mother and father and they are so glad to see them. They regret having left them in the forest.

WITCH

- Hello, children. Do you like my house? Come in, come in.
- I will show you.

HANS

- Look over there, Gretel, there's a house.
- The roof is made of candy.
- Well done, Gretel. Open the door quickly.
- Look over there. I can see our house.

GRETEL

- What a strange house.
- Yes and the windows are chocolate.
- How do you turn on the oven?
- Hansel the witch is in the oven.
- Finally, you are free Hansel!
